

The picture above shows six towns and the distances between them. A travelling salesman wants to visit each town and then return back to where he started.

- What is the shortest total distance he can travel?
- Does it matter which town he starts in?
- How can you be sure of your answer?
- Starting from Harlow, how many paths are there that visit each town exactly once and return to Harlow?